

Roy on Breakthrough Psychology

Now we focus in on the heart of breakthrough psychology, the idea of abnorming - born out of my eventual realisation that no theory, no matter how cool, could explain all that we are.

This is the key reason why I've bothered to learn about so many of the great ideas in psychology - and to keep them in my back pocket. You never know when they'll come in handy!

Let me know your thoughts!